

The Journal of Ophthalmic Photography

Volume 12, Number 1
August 1990

BEST of SHOW

Ophthalmic Photographers' Society
1989 Scientific Exhibit

The Journal of Ophthalmic Photography

Volume 12, Number 1
August 1990

CONTENTS

	Page
CERTIFIED OPHTHALMIC PHOTOGRAPHERS	8
Recipients of COPRA and CRA Certification
ARTICLES
Overexposure 1990: An Update on Health Hazards in Photography Susan D. Shaw and Monona Rossol	9-16
The Scanning Laser Ophthalmoscope: Basic Principles and Applications W.H. Woof, F.W. Fitzke, G.H. Chester, D.G. Greenwood, and J. Marshall	17-23
Ophthalmic Photographers' Society 1989 Scientific Exhibit	24-25
FOCUS ON FLUORESCEIN ANGIOGRAPHY
Clinical Considerations for Diabetic Retinopathy Paul M. Beer	26-27
LETTER TO THE JOURNAL
T-MAX P3200 Professional Film/ 5054. A new film offering reduction in exposure intensity and dye volume for fluorescein angiography. Jay H. Wruck	28-29
TECHNICAL TACTICS
Focal Illumination of Injection Site. Use of a high intensity, narrow dispersion light during injection of fluorescein dye Alan Frohlichstein	29
EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES	30
Diagnostic Picture Tests in Ophthalmology by Ruben Montague and Simon Ruben (reviewed by John L. Johnson). Atlas of Clinical Ophthalmoscopy by G. Scuderi, et al. (reviewed by John L. Johnson). Ophthalmic Terminology Speller and Vocabulary Builder by Harold A. Stein, et al. (reviewed by Monique M. Freshman). Overexposure. Health Hazards in Photography by Susan D. Shaw (reviewed by Marlene Fishman).
PRODUCT NEWS	31
• V.I.P. Tele-Ophthalmology System
• Ilford 5 Plus Film
CALENDAR	32
Index to Advertisers	32
Instructions to Authors	33

Front cover: "Cavernous Hemangioma" by Walter Wipplinger, RBP, won the Best of Show Award in the 1989 Ophthalmic Photographers' Society Scientific Exhibit (1989 OPS Annual Meeting, New Orleans, Louisiana). All first place winners of the print division are displayed in this issue (see pp. 24-25). The OPS gratefully acknowledges a contribution from Rodenstock USA, Inc. for the reproduction of this photograph for the front cover.